Dialogue offers national magazines, business newspapers and other leading content providers the opportunity to give their readers and subscribers a valuable service through a Dialogue Media Partnership.

Media Partners have the option to add content exclusive to their subscribers or create a bespoke national digital edition of the journal for distribution in their territory. The specially tailored digital journals will be circulated to the Media Partner's subscribers as well as our Affiliation Partners' members within the region.

Media Partners can sell ads in the national edition under their own terms and conditions. We just ask for a fixed fee per page sold that is based on the country and the number of people reached.

Clients of the Media Partner gain added advertiser value by associating with a global business publication, and benefit from access to Dialogue's Affiliation Partner network.
